

“Look At Little Sister” by Stevie Ray Vaughan

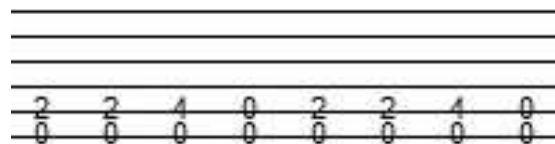

Tuning: Eb, Ab, Db, Gb, Bb, Eb

Strumming Pattern: D, D, DD (repeat)

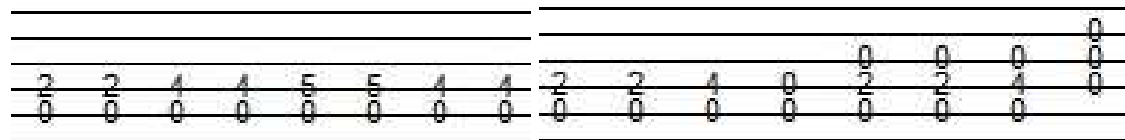

Riffs Used

These riffs are standard walking bass lines. You’ll only need one finger. The easiest way to play each walking line is to use your 1st finger for the lowest notes, then your 3rd and 4th fingers for the remaining notes.

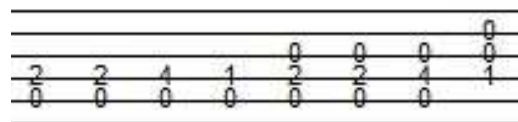

E based riff (named E7):

A based riff (named A7):

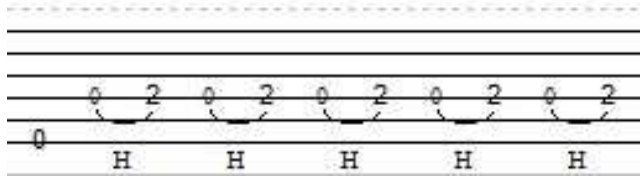

A based riff 2 (named A7+):

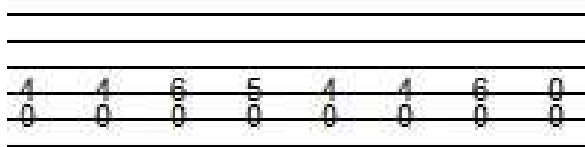

Main riff (named riff):

This is actually very easy as you only need your 1st finger. There are a few times that this riff is shortened, but you’ll easily identify it when it comes up. It will come in after the line “...gettin’ carried away” when moving into the A7 formation.

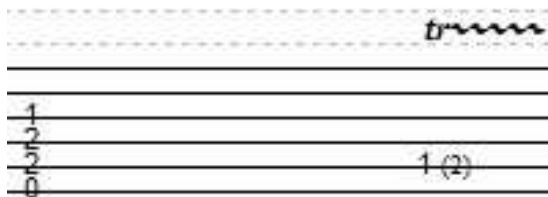

B based riff (named B7):

Note on this riff: every time you play this riff the next riff will be the A7+ which is the same thing as the A7 riff but instead you'll include the 1st fret note as indicated.

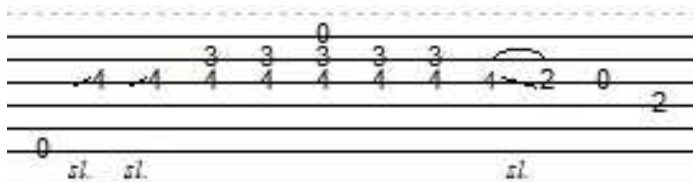

E break riff (named E break):

*1v2 indicates strike the 1st string note on A string and then rapidly hammer to the 2nd fret. It is shown in the tab below as 1(2).
