A D A
He went to Paris lookin' for answers to questions that bothered him so.
A D E7
He was impressive, young and aggressive, savin' the world on his own.
D A D E7
But the warm summer breezes, the French wines and cheeses put his ambition at bay
A
The summers and winters scattered like splinters
D E7 A
And four or five years slipped away.

A D A
Then he went to England, played the piano, and married an Actress named Kim.
A D E7
They had a fine life, she was a good wife and bore him a young son named Jim.
D A D E7
And all of the answers and all of the questions he locked in his attic one day
A
Cuz' he liked the quiet clean county livin'
D E7 A
And twenty more years slipped away.

A D A
Well the war took his baby, the bombs killed his lady, and left him with only one eye.
A D E7
His body was battered, his whole world was shattered, all he could do was just cry.
D A D E7
While the tears were a-fallin' he was recallin' answers he never found.
A
So he hopped on a freighter, skidded the ocean
D E7 A
and left England without a sound.

A D A
Now he lives in the islands, fishes the pylons and drinks his Green Label each day.
A D E7
Writing his memoirs, losin' his hearin', but he don't care what most people say.
D A D E7
Through 86 years of perpetual motion, if he likes you he'll smile, then he'll say...
A
"(Jimmy/Well) some of it's magic, some of it's tragic,

D
